

You're not alone in the dark

Nearly everything we do depends on electricity and we understand how frustrating it is when you are left in the dark. When your power goes out, we are out there in all kinds of weather working to restore your electricity as quickly and efficiently as possible.

The next time you lose power, please remember to be patient because your cooperative's linemen are on their way risking their lives to make yours more comfortable.

That's what we're here for, and you are our most important priority!
