

Give him a break

To you he may just be a lineman ... someone to bring power back on during an outage.

To his family he's a father, a son or a brother. During the most dangerous storms he's out risking his life so you'll have a cool place to relax, a TV to watch and a stove on which to cook dinner. When the lights go out his mission is to restore power to your family as quickly and efficiently as possible so he can go home to his.

Give him a break, be patient and remember the sacrifice he makes every day to keep you comfortable and safe.

This message is proudly brought to you by the Touchstone Energy Cooperatives of Illinois.

