

Snuggling up with your sweetie is a nice way to spend Valentine's Day,

but not if it's because your inefficient furnace is on its last leg.

Give yourselves the gift of a geothermal heat pump. It won't be as flashy as a new diamond ring or a shiny new Corvette, but once you've experienced the quiet comfort of your new system and see the lower utility bills, you'll forget all about them.

Contact your electric cooperative for more information about geothermal heat pumps, and ask about any rebates that might be available.

For more ways to save energy, log on at www.togetherwesave.com.

TOGETHER WE SAVE