

Beat the peak, and have more fun!

It's finally summertime, and that means two things—outdoor activities and blazing heat. To have more cash and make the season more enjoyable, do chores like vacuuming, washing clothes and running the dishwasher at night when it's cooler. Close window coverings during the day on the sides of your house that are exposed to the sun, and bump the thermostat up a degree or two. Don't leave TVs or lights on in rooms that aren't in use, and turn the water heater down. Keeping an eye on when your electric use is at its peak will go a long way in holding down costs.

For more energy efficiency tips and resources, log on at www.togetherwesave.com.

